Description of Applicant and Proposed International Telecommunications Services

StarVox Communications, Inc. (“StarVox”), the Applicant herein, is a privately-held corporation incorporated in the state of California. StarVox is not affiliated with any foreign carriers. It is a start-up company and is not a dominant carrier in any market.

If granted the International Section 214 License for which it has applied, StarVox proposes to provide switch-based international long distance telecommunications services on a wholesale basis pursuant to its Section 214 authorization. More precisely, StarVox will offer origination, termination and transmission services to other domestic and international telecommunications carriers through the company’s switches located in the U.S. StarVox does not propose offering services directly to the public.
